Brief Site/Content Package Explanation:

-FLASH Website.

The FLASH Website (Option 1). You will be given a choice of different formats in which to create your website including simple navigational aids to full screen flash. Basic button, audio, and video scripting comes free, but other scripting is regarded as complex media and can be purchased as such.

-Web 2.0 Website

The Basic Website (Option 2). Basic Javascript effects, such as roll-overs or simple image transitions come free, and we include CSS Style Formatting and easy syndication formatting in our pages.

-PHP Scripting

PHP is one of the more useful yet valuable scripting languages available, and is the language we at Systems Creative specialize in. Options include user tracking and login pages, fora/bulletin boards (not including custom skins, which available as complex media), simple calendars, databases, and merchandise systems. We also do IPB, SMF and Drupal 6.0+ installation and configuration, and are familiar with popular extensions like Ubercart.

-Maintenance

Systems Creative prides itself on clean, efficient design and coding. Choose this option if you would like a code-cleanup (which is useful if you are having a hard time reading and working with the original developer's code), format change (like adding CSS support to allow you to easily change website skins), or updating site content.

-Complex Media

Complex Media includes movies, games, gimmicks, advertisements, banners, and more. Systems Creative can produce just the right multimedia for you according to your specifications.

-Estimates and the Estimate Guarantee

All estimates are guaranteed to be accurate for the original design proposal within 25.00 USD above the estimate. A second estimate will be given before completion of the project. The final price will not exceed that second estimate cap of over 25.00 above the estimate or your service fee will be refunded. If the original design proposal is changed after signing this invalidates the estimate and a new estimate will be given in a reasonable amount of time.

Addendum

1. Coded Pages

A single website page is defined as the space available in Internet Explorer without a sidebar(all normal topbars included) on a standard 72DPI 1280x1024px display for one frame on loading completion. A single PHP page is defined about 40 lines of code not including spaces, comments, or unnecessarily-lengthy code (i.e. code made longer to improve readability).

2. Complex Scripting

If purchasing a web site involving complex on-site scripting, please note that the site will need to be developed on the final hosting space, but it will not replace your current layout or be accessible by the public until the site is complete and the final invoice is signed.

3. Hosting Terms and Conditions

There is a one week wait period between payment for hosting, and the registration and completion of domain and hosting activation. All hosting must be renewed after 1 year. If you do not want to renew, you must cancel at least 3 weeks before renewal date. Failure to do so will result in you being charged an additional year. Renewal date is exactly 1 year from date contract is signed and payment is made. With cancel, the website will be removed and you will be provided with a CD with your website files as they were before cancellation. If you go over your space quota, the offending file(s) will be removed. A letter and an e-mail will be sent to you 6 weeks before renewal date. If you do not receive your letter, please let us know, but we are not responsible for letter delivery. If you fail to fulfill any terms mentioned here or agreed upon, or follow procedure mentioned on page 5 on the occasion that you are unsatisfied with the final site design, the website and space will be confiscated or removed (including copyright on the materials, past and present, excepting content or design copyright the signing party at time of signing) either until the dispute is resolved, or with a refund on the final cost of the website and permanent removal. No refund is available for web hosting. By signing this contract, you acknowledge that it is illegal to with-hold content (even content downloaded or distributed) if the website and space is confiscated or removed.

4. Redistribution

Content purchased from Systems Creative may not be resold without written permission of a Systems Creative Representative. Any modules or packages (content sold together under a totaled price) created by Systems Creative may not be redistributed for use by another party without written permission, including modules distributed with websites.

Note: All data on this form is strictly private and will not be shared. However, notification of copyright transfer may be made public after website confiscation or removal.

Also, the website designer reserves the right to put his name on the website and to duplicate all work without any of your personal details (the content copyright the signer) for use in his portfolio. A time-table will be discussed. If the designer is unable to meet your needs within the allotted time, a 10% percent refund per week over time will be made. Changes to the website during the construction period above 8 times will be charged as maintenance. If you feel anything is unreasonable, please contact us immediately and we will try to resolve it.
